“Safety” isn’t just for football
It’s for pets, too!

Don’t commit a party foul during the Superbowl! Keep pets safe, happy and healthy by defending your game-day goodies.

Your favorite game-day foods are fun, tasty and definitely Pinterest-worthy... but did you know how harmful they can be for pets? Sometimes we get distracted by guests (not to mention all those funny commercials). Don’t let the distractions get in the way of keeping pets safe. And remember, if your pet accidently gets into food, drinks or other game-day goodies, call your veterinarian right away—ready, set, go!

DON’T GIVE A DOG A BONE (OR A CHICKEN WING)! BONES CAN CAUSE OBSTRUCTIONS IN PETS’ DIGESTIVE TRACTS AND CAN LEAD TO CHOKING. THEY CAN ALSO BREAK OFF AND PUNCTURE THE STOMACH LINING.

BEER MAKES EVERYTHING BETTER. IT CAN ALSO CAUSE VOMITING, DIARRHEA, DIFFICULTY BREATHING, COMA OR DEATH IN PETS.

Avocados are the pits for pets—especially birds.
The persin they contain can be fatal to your feathered friends.
Keep your guac to yourself.

Source: Central Veterinary Associates